FRANZI
SHORTS

Franzi Shorts is designed to identify and support emerging writers and creative producers by offering them an opportunity to create work within the industry.

The programme also contributes to building Franzi's network of collaborators and developing its fiction department.

Each year, the programme provides creative, production, and financial support for up to three short films.

Application Materials

To enter Franzi Shorts, please submit one of the following:

- A short film script
- A detailed treatment (2–5 pages) outlining the story and characters.

We also welcome (but don’t require) the following optional materials:

- A lookbook (style, tone, and mood)
- A pitch deck (themes, characters and world-building)
- Writer’s note explaining your vision and personal connection to the story

We’re open to any genre or style, including documentary and animation.

To apply for Franzi Shorts, you must submit your project through FilmFreeway and attach any optional documents there. If you encounter any issues, you can always email us at franzishorts@franzifilms.com. Please include the name of your project and your FilmFreeway submission number in the email subject line.

During the application period, or even after being shortlisted, applicants may update their uploaded materials, including the script. If you do so, we recommend emailing our team to let us know, as we may have already reviewed an earlier version of your script or other materials.

Language Requirements

Scripts may be submitted in any language, with the understanding that they will be translated into English to ensure all jurors can read them.

The final language of the film will ultimately be decided by the executive producers and producer, with a high likelihood of it being in English or Danish.

It's not mandatory, but we would appreciate it if the optional materials are submitted in English, Danish, or Spanish.

Student Applicants

Student applicants must upload a picture of their student ID or proof of enrollment at the time the film was made, directly on FilmFreeway. If an applicant submits under the student category without attaching valid proof, the application will be automatically disqualified without prior notice.
